British scientist can genetically modify human embryos, ethics committee says