

"He who sits in the heavens shall laugh; the LORD shall hold them in derision." - Psalm 2:4
"Then they will call upon me, but I will not answer; they will seek me diligently, but they will not find me. Because they hated knowledge and did not choose the fear of the LORD." - Proverbs 1: 28, 29

The nations may rage, and people may plot vain and foolish schemes against the Almighty. They lift their voices in defiance, take counsel together, and imagine that they can stand against the Lord and against His Anointed. Yet all such rebellion is empty, for God sits enthroned in the heavens, sovereign and unshaken. Their pride invites His judgment, and their refusal to fear Him leads only to darkness. But those who seek the wisdom of God will learn the fear of the Lord, a holy reverence that opens the heart to truth. All who seek Him diligently will find Him, for He reveals Himself to the humble and grants understanding to those who choose His ways. Let us therefore walk in the fear of the Lord, seeking Him with all our hearts, and resting in the assurance that His truth stands forever. Praise the Lord!
