Firefighters in Greece are battling wildfires that have swept through the south of the country over the last three days. The country has suffered prolonged heatwaves, leaving woodlands tinder-dry. The Greek Prime Minister, Costas Karamanlis, has declared a nationwide state of emergency, as wildfires travelling around a mile every few minutes destroyed villages on the island of Evia, on Peloponnese and around Athens. The fires have so far claimed around 56 lives, and several individuals have been arrested for arson. Firefighters are being brought in from Israel and the European Union, and help is being offered to Greece by other governments.

Quote: ""Fires are burning in more than half the country," fire department spokesman Nikos Diamandis said. "This is definitely an unprecedented disaster for Greece." Emergency workers and fire-fighting planes from other European Union countries have joined the battle against the fires, and more help is expected from countries outside the bloc. "Thirty-one planes and helicopters from various European countries and from Israel will be sent. We also have an offer of assistance from the American and Russian governments with whom I communicated yesterday evening," Greek Foreign Affairs Minister Dora Bakoyannis said.

It's hard to understand how half the world can be suffering from an unprecedented deluge, while in Greece much of the countryside is going up in smoke due to lack of rain. In 2005 we had this exact same situation only it was reversed , with much of western Europe suffering prolonged heatwaves, while eastern Europe was flooded. The news media blamed this bizarre situation on a tilted jet stream. In that article I mentioned the little talked-about phenomenon of weather warfare. World governments have been experimenting with the earth's atmosphere for decades. Scientists have shown they can manipulate the jet stream by firing radio waves, called Extremely Low Frequency waves, into the upper atmosphere, heating it up and altering the weather patterns...

Quote: "ELF fields...propagate vertically to the ground, creating 'standing waves'...that can redistribute energy and momentum in (atmosphere) through cumulus convection. It has been consistently noted that variance of the (Soviet) ELF transmissions leads to a subsequent change in the route of the jet stream flow in the Northern Hemisphere within 72 hours.

As I said at the time, weather manipulation is real enough to warrant the United Nations to ban its use as a weapon of warfare. Countries are prohibited to use weather warfare against other states, but they are not prohibited to use it against their own people. All this talk about the urgent need to combat "global warming" seems to be a convenient excuse for the setting up of a "global government" to help tackle the crisis. Humanity needs an external crisis in order to unite the nations of earth under one authority. How much of this is a result of global warming, how much a result of changes in the sun or how much a result of weather manipulation, we cannot tell. But the Bible states that during the tribulation period, prolonged heatwaves will cause men to blaspheme God, and one third of the earth's vegetation will be burned up. More than ever, verses in the book of Revelation are reading like tomorrow's news headlines.

Revelation 8:7
The first angel sounded, and there followed hail and fire mingled with blood, and they were cast upon the earth: and the third part of trees was burnt up, and all green grass was burnt up.
