Two men who authorities said dabbled in satanism have been arrested in connection with a recent rash of arson and vandalism at rural churches. Satanic graffiti was scrawled at or near some of the east Alabama churches, and the 21-year-old suspects "called themselves professed spiritual satanists," Russell County Sheriff Tommy Boswell said Monday.