This link from my friend Tony. Sources from within the secretive Bilderberg gathering, which was held on the 6th of June in Washington D.C., have revealed details of what was discussed by world leaders at the event. Bilderberg attendees includes prominent world leaders, media moguls, international bankers, pop stars and people of general influence in this world. Previous guests include former British Prime Minister Tony Blair, former Defence Secretary George Robertson, former NATO Secretary General Javier Solana, and former Conservative leader Kenneth Clarke. It was rumoured that US presidential candidates Hilary Clinton and Barack Obama both attended this year's conference. Despite the impressive guest list, the event usually goes entirely unreported in the news media. No minutes are ever recorded of the meeting and there are no formal written agreements at their conclusion. Attendees claim that when they enter the Bilderberg meetings, they do so as citizens of earth and not as representatives of their respective countries. In this way they remain totally unaccountable to their own governments and people. But the Bilderberg gatherings do shape global foreign policy, and world leaders leave with a set agenda to fulfill in their home countries. Several of the topics up for discussion at this year's conference included the rising price of oil, the nuclear threat from Iran and a global identification system.

Quote: "Ominously, Tucker's source also told him that Bilderberg were discussing the microchipping of humans on a mass scale, which would be introduced under the pretext of fighting terrorism whereby the "good guys" would be allowed to travel freely from airports so long as their microchip could be scanned and the information stored in a database. Tucker said the idea was also sold on the basis that it would help hospital staff treat a patient in an emergency situation because a scan of the chip would provide instantaneous access to health details. Tucker underscored that Bilderberg were talking about subdermally implanted chips and not merely RFID chips contained in clothing. The discussion took place in a main conference hall and was part of the agenda, not an off-hand remark in the hotel bar.

While the Bilderberg gatherings certainly seem to have a sinister air about them, I'm not sure that I would be inclined to credit them with the power that some do. For example, according to Prison Planet, Henry Kissinger predicted at a Bilderberg meeting in 2005 that the oil prices were to double over the next few years. The question is, did this happen because Kissinger said it would, or was he simply predicting what was already destined to come to pass through events beyond his control? We can say the same for this global identification system. Is the global terrorist phenomenon purposely designed to bring about the mass chipping of the human race, or are the Bilderberg simply reacting in the best way they know how to events beyond their control? That is the problem when it comes to conspiracy theories. They cannot be proven. The conspiracy theorist lives in a world in which even the apparent lack of evidence for their theory can be justified as a counter-conspiracy against it. The UFO conspiracies are a classic example of this. Some say world governments are covering up the existence of extra-terrestrial life in order to exercise control over the human race. In actual fact the governments know very little about the UFO phenomenon. Despite over 50 years of research, not one shred of evidence has ever proven that there is life beyond this planet, and the Bible declares that there are no such things as aliens. That's why I try to stay clear of conspiracy theories. There is also another reason why I try to stay clear of them. Conspiracy theories engender fear. The Bible declares that "God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind ", 2nd Timothy 1:7. It's not so much a case of the conspiracy theory being true or not. It is a question of examining the theory and asking yourself, where is Jesus Christ in all of this? Does this cause me to trust in God, or does it cause me to fear for the future? Christians are not to fear for the future, for our future is secure in God's hands (Revelation 1:8).

There is only one source that is 100% reliable. It is not tainted by bias, but comes from a True and Faithful Witness. It does not engender fear, but brings peace of mind (Philippians 4:6-7). It has a proven track record of over 6000 years, and has predicted mankind's future for over a millennia to come (Revelation 21). It is the eternal Word of God. Read it. Trust it with your soul. God has said in His Word, "Heaven and earth shall pass away: but my words shall not pass away ", Luke 21:33. Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and you shall be saved (Acts 16:31).

Philippians 4:8-9
Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things [are] honest, whatsoever things [are] just, whatsoever things [are] pure, whatsoever things [are] lovely, whatsoever things [are] of good report; if [there be] any virtue, and if [there be] any praise, think on these things. Those things, which ye have both learned, and received, and heard, and seen in me, do: and the God of peace shall be with you.
